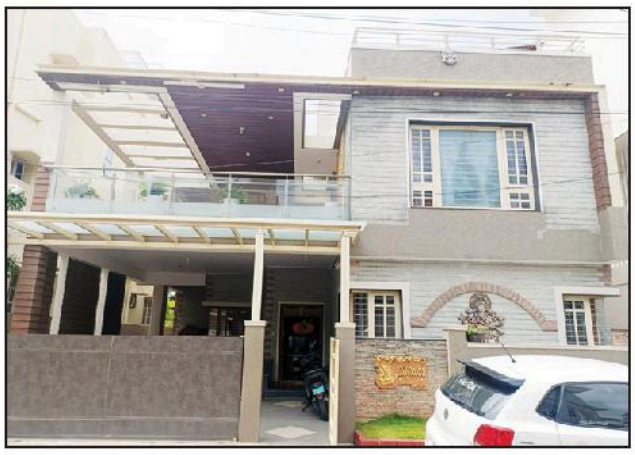
Lokayukta raids eight Government officials

MCC Zone 5 In-charge Assistant Commissioner and seven other officers under the scanner

Mysuru, July 23 (BLU&VNS)- In an early morning crackdown, the Karnataka Lokayukta today launched simultaneous raids across the State targeting eight Government officials in connection with Disproportionate Assets (DA) cases.

The officials are accused of amassing assets disproportionate to their known sources of income. Among those raided was B. Venkataram, Zone 5 In-charge Assistant Commissioner of the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC), who also serves as the President of the MCC Employees Association.



Lokayukta officials raided the residences of B. Venkataram, MCC Zone 5 In-charge Asst. Commissioner, at K.C. Layout (pic. left) and M. Manjunath Swamy, a retired Joint Director of Department of Skill Development, Entrepreneurship & Livelihood, at Sathagalli in Mysuru this morning.

In Mysuru, a team of Lokayukta officials, led by Mysuru Lokayukta SP T.J. Udesh, arrived at Venkataram's residence in K.C. Layout around 7 am in private vehicles. The team sealed the entry gates, barring media & outsiders, and conducted extensive searches, including verification of documents.

Venkataram had recently led a protest by MCC Employees Association demanding full implementation of 7th Pay Commission benefits for civic workers.

Notices issued based on digital transactions, says Commercial Taxes Joint Commissioner

Mysuru, July 23 (PM&BCT)- The Karnataka Department of Commercial Taxes has issued notices in 1,314 instances across the Mysuru Division — which includes Mysuru, Chamarajanagar, Mandya and Kodagu districts — regarding Goods and Services Tax (GST) registration compliance.

These include bakeries, confectionery stores, hotels, canteens, pan shops, provision stores, milk booths, meat outlets, petrol bunks, bars and restaurants, hospitals, automobile showrooms, electrical and hardware shops, jewellery stores, repair and service centres and wine stores.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, P.D. Shobha, In-Charge Joint Commissioner (Administration Division), Commercial Taxes Department, stated that registering eligible traders under GST is an ongoing process.

For those yet to register, the Department regularly conducts surveys and field inspections, especially when new commercial establishments open.

In a new development, unregistered traders are being identified through Unified Payments Interface (UPI)-based digital platforms and digital wallets. Traders whose annual turnover exceeds Rs. 20 lakh in services or Rs. 40 lakh in goods — based on transaction data collected from these digital payment systems — have been flagged and served notices.

Compliance-related information

The Department has begun the first phase by issuing intimation letters to these traders, notifying them of their GST eligibility and requesting compliance-related information.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

SKIN CITY: Anti-aging — that's the new buzz word. I lowered my newspaper and smiled intelligently at my wife after providing my Gyaan of the Day. She frowned, 'Not just aunties, uncles are also aging. Even though they dye their hair jet black and refuse to accept their fifty shades of grey.' Kamala makes everything a feminism debate nowadays.

But aging is one sphere where there is gender parity. I'm talking about trends… like Botox. She narrowed her eyes: 'If you're going to be vulgar I'm leaving. You don't have to be rude about my burgeoning backside.' Kamala listens to a lot of Shashi Tharoor speeches.

I wasn't referring to booty but to beauty treatments — like fillers. These are much needed as we age. I'm sure she understood me, but she decided to throw in a socio-political comment to sound superior: 'Whether it's Delhi or Mumbai or Bengaluru, all cities need their roads repaired and potholes filled. Bridges need to be maintained and checked regularly.'

So also the human face and body (I was sticking to my topic). Sometimes it needs a little boost. A little correction. A touch of treatment. So we can look like Gen Z bro. Yolo.

Kamala sat back on the armchair and looked deeply philosophical: "You know, this generation has it all sorted. Now they have a drug for weight loss. Like our 2-minute noodles they can lose weight instantly with minimum effort. Though some of the brand ambassadors are looking a bit like the living dead. Gauntie-aging!' She has a habit of creating words and hoping people make it the Oxford word of the year.

It doesn't prevent brain rot, I countered. It's like painting an old dilapidated building while it's crumbling from the foundation. Kamala perked up: 'That's what we should do! Add more layers — cleanser, toner, hyaluronic, glycolic, sunscreen, retinol and finally foundation. Nothing survives without a good foundation.'

I smiled at her indulgently. I was about to say something trite like age is just a number. But she beat me to it: 'Your silly sense of humour keeps me laughing. All said and done, together with good healthy food, regular exercise and adequate sleep, laughter is the best medicine.'

We have an appointment with a qualified dermatologist tomorrow — I hope he has a sense of humour. I'm not complaining. Maybe that is the anti-aging mantra: Not complaining. — Anil Abraham in The Times of India

Woman moves into retirement home at 38

Melbourne: A 38-year-old woman who has been living in a retirement home for a year claims moving there as a way to start over was the best decision she ever made.

After her long-term romantic relationship with her partner came to an end, the 38-year-old woman, who preferred to remain anonymous, decided it was time for a fresh start and moved out of their shared apartment in Melbourne. She spent two months living in an Airbnb, which proved costly and when she started looking for an apartment she could actually afford, she found the places on offer weren't very enticing.

But when she visited her aunt at a retirement village and told her that she was looking for a place, the elderly woman asked her if she wanted to try an apartment that had just opened up in the village. Her relatively young age wouldn't be a problem, the woman's aunt said, so she decided to fill up the paperwork and give the retirement home a chance. It turned out to be the best decision she ever made.

Man jailed for spiking drink with 'Truth Serum'

Beijing: A man was recently sentenced to three years and three months in prison and fined 10,000 yuan (1,400 dollars) for repeatedly spiking a colleague's drink with a 'truth serum' to steal their work plans.

The man, surnamed Li, reportedly came across the truth serum and was intrigued by the vendor's claims that only a few drops could untangle anyone's tongue and reveal all their secrets. Li bought the miracle product and decided to use it on his colleague, Wang, whose secrets he wanted to learn. Although neither Wang's work plans have been revealed, people speculated that his plan must be important.

VOICE OF THE READER

Do we deserve Clean City tag?

Sir,

It is heartening to note that our beloved city has been adjudged as 3rd cleanest city (in 3 to 10 lakh population category) and all of us deserve to be congratulated.

While Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) deserves to be congratulated for projecting the city, we need to introspect whether we deserve this tag. Because we see garbage everywhere in the streets and most of the roads are dug up for months.

The accolades given to us needs to be protected, if need to be improved. As citizens we have added responsibility. I have some suggestions to make:

1. We need to ensure that we reduce usage of plastic as plastic clogs drains.

2. We should not throw garbage on streets, I have seen during my morning walk, people come in luxurious cars and throw garbage in plastic cover on street and drive away. Even though MCC is picking up garbage from homes, this approach by citizens should be stopped, even penalising severely.

3. We should monitor street food vendors. Give them license and allot them specific place in an area. They should ensure that the place surrounding them is not littered. Their license should be cancelled in case they fail to keep their surroundings neat. I have seen garbage everywhere in and around our famous Mysore Palace during morning hours.

4. Now that we have no elected Corporators, our people's representatives (MLAs and MLCs) must visit each Ward randomly and ensure that the place is kept neat. If possible MCC should have a competition for Wards for their cleanliness.

5. An incentive system may be given to Pourakarmikas for keeping their Wards neat.

We can enumerate many suggestions but until we as citizens want our surroundings and city to be neat it is not possible for the authorities to implement the suggestions.

Madiga Associations' Statewide stir

Bengaluru, July 23 (KMS& DM)- Seeking inner reservation quota among SC communities, Madiga Associations will stage a demonstration in front of Deputy Commissioner (DC) offices in all districts of the State on Aug. 1.

Announcing this at a press meet here yesterday, former Union Minister and BJP leader A. Narayanaswamy said that it has been a year since a Supreme Court bench headed by the then Chief Justice D.Y. Chandrachud on Aug.1, 2024 held that States are Constitutionally empowered to make sub-classifications within Scheduled Castes for granting reservation for the uplift of castes that are socially and educationally more backward. But Karnataka Government is intentionally delaying announcement of inner reservation quota, bowing to the pressures of established interests, he alleged. As such, Madiga organisations have decided to stage stir in front of DC offices on Aug.1.

Noting that a State Cabinet Minister had assured of introducing inner reservation quota in 3 months when community members staged a massive protest at Belagavi months ago, Narayanaswamy said that the State Govt. constituted Justice Nagamohan Das Commission to look into the matter and submit a report within 40 days. But it has been over six months since the Commission was formed and nothing much has moved since then, he alleged and warned State Government of calling a Karnataka Bandh next month if inner reservation was not announced at the earliest.

MP & former Dy.CM, Govind Karjol, urged Govt. to implement inner reservation by Aug. 16. He warned of massive Movement if the Govt. fails to act by then.

Road taxpayers rewarded with pothole-filled streets

Mysuru, July 23 (PM&KS)- Mysuru's road tax-paying citizens seem to have been handed a dubious gift — cratered, pothole-riddled roads that make daily commuting a risky affair.

From the heart of the city to its outskirts, the majority of roads are scarred with potholes of various shapes and sizes, turning routine rides into hazardous journeys.

One minor miscalculation, especially on two-wheelers, can land a commuter in the hospital. The menace of potholes is not new, but the failure of Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) to address the issue in its early stages has allowed small depressions to turn into dangerous traps, now filled with rainwater and nearly impossible to spot.

Irwin Road

Despite repeated warnings, MCC continues to ignore pothole-ridden stretches. A glaring example was highlighted last year by Star of Mysore, which reported on the appalling condition of the road in front of the Sub-Urban Bus Stand.

Following the report, a portion of the road was concreted and another asphalted — sections that remain pothole-free today. However, just around the corner, Irwin Road near the Sub-Urban Bus Stand is in a terrible state.

Arch Gate to Nehru Circle

From the Arch Gate to Nehru Circle, three massive potholes make navigation perilous. While some potholes from Nehru Circle to the Government Ayurveda Hospital Circle have been patched, others on the same stretch have been conveniently ignored. The rationale behind this selective repair work remains unclear.

Ashoka Circle

At Ashoka Circle (Ballal Circle), a pit dug up for civic work remains improperly filled. With rains lashing the city, the area has turned into a slushy mess, posing a danger to motorists. The story is similar on New Kantharaj Urs Road near the K.G. Koppal bus stop, where a massive pothole has remained unfilled for days. Even basic patchwork with mud hasn't been attempted.

Anikethana Road

In Kuvempunagar, Chitrabanu Road and Anikethana Road are no better. The latter, dug up for UGD works, has now turned into a cratered mess. Despite Star of Mysore publishing a report on July 8 titled "Anikethana Road Riddled with Craters, Turns into a Death Trap," no corrective measures have been taken. Recent rains have only worsened the condition, leaving the road dangerously slushy.

Sahukar Channaiah Road

In Saraswathipuram, Sahukar Channaiah Road near Bake Point is in a pathetic state after being dug up. The post-work patching was done half-heartedly, and rain had transformed the stretch into a mud pit.

Bogadi Road

Meanwhile, on Bogadi Road near the entrance to the University of Mysore, loose jelly stones and stagnant rainwater have turned the sloping road into a mini-lake. Motorists, especially two-wheeler riders, are struggling to navigate through the invisible hazards lurking beneath the water.

A ride across the city reveals the same story everywhere — roads riddled with potholes of all sizes and depths. Citizens have urged MCC to take up road repair work immediately and, at the very least, use asphalt to fill potholes instead of mud.

It's high time the authorities realise that those who pay road tax deserve safe roads, not slush traps and crater fields.

Manholes posing problems at B.M. Sri Nagar

Mysuru, July 23 (KS)- Residents of B.M. Sri Nagar are facing problems related to manholes in the locality as repair works are being taken up everyday especially on 2nd Main Road of the area.

After the repair of the manhole located at the junction of the 6th Cross, the broken lid has been covered to the manhole and a ring has been placed on it causing a lot of problems to motorists and children. This is also causing problems for smooth movement of vehicles including KSRTC buses and there is a fear of accidents taking place during night times.

The manholes on the 2nd Main Road look like they have caved in and a huge pit is formed on the 13th Cross. Though a manhole on the 6th Cross had been repaired, the problems faced by the residents has not been solved. It is alleged that as the UGD pipes and manholes were not installed in a scientific manner, sewage water is flowing back to houses causing a lot of inconvenience to the residents.

Residents alleged that the MCC authorities have not bothered to take steps to solve this issue and only two manholes have been installed on this cross road which is over 200 metres in length, which is causing the problem.

The residents have urged the authorities concerned to solve this problem at the earliest for the benefit of all.

State to induct Civil Defence volunteers soon

Interested may submit applications at District Home Guards Office; volunteers to be involved in emergency rescue operations

Mysuru, July 23 (VVH&BS)- The State Government has decided to introduce the concept of Civil Defence Volunteers to involve interested persons in the rescue of people and cattle during emergency situations.

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, who has given his consent for the proposal, has issued instructions to take action for the recruitment of volunteers under Civil Defence Act, in a recent video conference meeting held with the Deputy Commissioners of all the districts.

The new initiative aims to address situations that emerge during fire mishaps, natural disasters and other accidents, with the thrust on creating a robust team of not less than 1,000 volunteers in each of the districts. They will be working in tandem with the Police personnel, Fire and Emergency Services personnel and Home Guards. Prior to that, they will be trained along with the required guidance to hone their skills.

Those with a minimum age of 18 years, a pass in fourth grade, longing to work for the country and the land, can enrol their names for this yeoman service. The interested may walk in to the Home Guards Office in their respective districts and submit the application along with the photocopies of their Aadhaar card, educational qualification and photograph. They won't be paid any remuneration by the Government, except for taking care of their travel and food expenses during rescue operations.

The team of volunteers will be recruited in each district and the team with maximum volunteers, will be split into taluk-level teams and deputed to assist those parts of the district, depending on the requirements. The training related to handling of emergency health conditions during accidents will be provided at the Central Office of Home Guards in Bengaluru.

Dr. Kantharaju

Dr. Kantharaju, District Home Guards Commandant said, with Nada Habba Mysuru Dasara festival fast approaching, the recruitment process of Civil Defence Volunteers will be expedited. It is being thought over to deploy the volunteers for crowd controlling and additional security measures during Dasara. The applications for volunteers have been already invited and those interested can submit their applications at the Home Guards Office in Saraswathipuram here.

Ban cattle grazing in forest areas: Forest Minister

Stern action follows recent incident of five tiger deaths in MM Hills Wildlife Sanctuary

Eshwar Khandre

Bengaluru, July 23 (BS) - Forest Minister Eshwar Khandre has directed the officials to ban the entry of domesticated animals including cattle and livestock into forest areas for grazing them, in compliance with the rules and regulations.

Khandre has issued directions in this regard to Additional Chief Secretary and Principal Chief Conservator of Forest (PCCF). Khandre has quoted the reasons listed by environmentalists in their letter to his office, where they have referred the recent case of five tiger deaths in Hoogyam Range of MM Hills Wildlife Sanctuary, where it was allegedly found that, the big cats had fed on the carcass of a cow laced with poisonous substance that had led to their death.

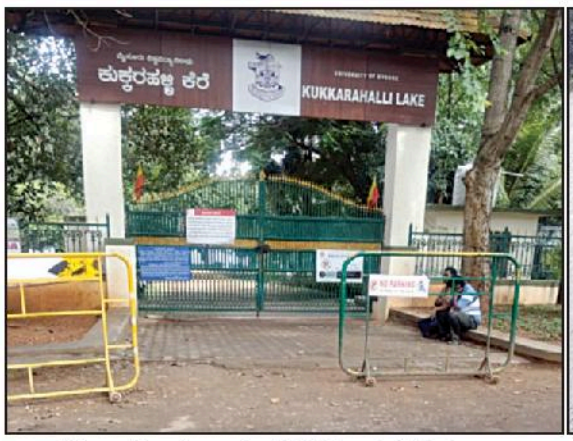
Khandre has further stated that grazing of domesticated animals inside forest areas was affecting the lush growth of forest resources. These animals feed on tender plants, thus restricting the thick growth of vegetation, as opined by the environmentalists.

With a vast number of cattle and livestock let into forest areas for grazing, the herbivores in the wild are facing lack of fodder for their own survival and the possibilities of wild animals contracting diseases from these livestock cannot be ignored.

The stymied growth of forest resources have a cascading effect on the rivers that flow through forest areas, leading to man-animal conflicts. If the cattle grazers are killed in man-animal conflicts, there is no provision as per rules of the Forest Department to award compensation in such cases.

Most importantly, following the judgment of Madras High Court prohibiting grazing of animals in Tamil Nadu forests, those living on the forest fringes in the neighbouring States are grazing their cattle in Karnataka forest areas, which is a matter of grave concern. Action should be taken to prohibit the grazing of animals in all forest areas across the State, added Khandre.

Repair Kukkarahalli Lake walking path: MGP urges UoM VC



The main entry gate of Kukkarahalli Lake.

The damaged sheet of the roof at boating point.

Mysuru, July 23 (BS)- Mysore Grahakara Parishat (MGP) has urged the University of Mysore (UoM) to repair the walking path around Kukkarahalli Lake in city.

With UoM being the custodian of Kukkarahalli Lake, MGP Convenor D.V. Dayanand Sagar has urged Varsity Registrar to take action to repair the walking path.

"UoM Vice-Chancellor Prof. N.K. Lokanath has vast concern for the conservation of Kukkarahalli Lake, that is rich in natural resources. Following the demand of MGP activists and environmentalists, initiative has been taken to prevent flowing of sewage water to the Lake. We are hopeful that the Varsity authorities will support the efforts being undertaken to improve the total lake area. Along with this, the walkers and strollers also deserve basic amenities," said Sagar.

The walking path that forms 4.5 km from the main entrance has turned inconvenient with stones displaced from the surface while at some points the path has turned treacherous.

The elderly persons are facing the brunt with unsuspecting few tripping and suffering minor injuries. If the bones suffer a dent at old age, the persons may naturally feel it difficult to walk, Sagar said.

Apart from the city residents, the tourists too visit the Lake for its pristine environs and behold the visual beauty in their eyes. The roofing sheet at the boating point is damaged and needs repair. The supporting metal pillars should be painted to make it attractive, added Sagar.

Traders dealing in GST-exempt goods need not worry, says tax officer

P.D. Shobha

Mysuru, July 23 (PM&BCT)- The Department of Commercial Taxes has begun collecting information on traders using data from UPI and other online payment platforms. However, since transaction records do not indicate the nature of goods sold, it is currently difficult to determine whether traders are dealing in taxable or exempt items.

P.D. Shobha, In-Charge Joint Commissioner (Administration Division), Commercial Taxes Department, clarified that traders who deal exclusively in exempt goods will be excluded from GST registration after verification. Notices have been issued based on PAN and address details. If it is established that a trader deals only in non-taxable goods, they will not be liable for GST.

She noted that many traders have already submitted product-related information to the Department. Those selling exempt items have no reason to be concerned about GST liability. Traders may also share product details over the phone, and if verified on-site by officials, they will be formally informed that GST registration is not required.

Of the 1,314 cases identified in the Mysuru Division — which covers Mysuru, Chamarajanagar, Mandya and Kodagu districts — the Department has issued GST intimation notices to a range of business establishments.

Documents submission

Traders, who sell non-taxable goods, can submit relevant documents and request exemption from GST registration. During the compilation of trader data, the Department did not initially receive item-specific details. Those exclusively dealing in exempt products may now submit proof and opt out of the GST process. Shobha explained that all business transaction accounts are linked to identifiable banking codes, which help the Department gather transaction data and assess GST applicability based on turnover.

She warned traders against discontinuing digital payments in an attempt to avoid taxes. "Stopping online payments will not guarantee exemption from GST," she said. "In fact, it may harm traders' businesses, as customers now overwhelmingly prefer digital payments. Cash-only transactions could drive customers away and reduce convenience for both sides."

Cash-only sales on the rise amid GST anxiety

Mysuru, July 23 (PM&BCT)- Amid growing concerns over Goods and Services Tax (GST) compliance, several small traders in Mysuru city have reportedly shifted to cash-only transactions. However, many continue to use UPI-based digital payment methods for customer convenience.

At Devaraja Market, some fruit vendors — whose products are GST-exempt — have removed UPI QR codes from their stalls.

Vendor Gowramma told Star of Mysore that after watching TV reports suggesting mandatory GST payments, she and two fellow traders decided to stop accepting UPI and switched to cash-only dealings.

On the other hand, fruit seller Prakash pointed out that not all local vendors are alarmed. "Digital payments are extremely helpful. They solve the issue of exact change and also help when applying for loans," he said. For these reasons, many traders have opted to continue using UPI.

According to Section 22 of the GST Act, 2017, any trader whose total annual turnover exceeds Rs. 40 lakh for goods or Rs. 20 lakh for services — regardless of whether the payments are received via cash, UPI, bank transfer or card — is legally required to register for GST. The Department of Commercial Taxes recently reiterated this in an official release.

Haveri vegetable vendor gets Rs. 29 lakh GST notice

Bengaluru, July 23- In yet another shocker following the recent issuance of GST notices to small traders and vendors accepting UPI payments, the State Commercial Tax Department has now issued a notice to a vegetable vendor in Haveri, demanding a staggering Rs. 29 lakh as Goods and Services Tax (GST).

The notice was served to Shankargouda Hadimani, who runs a small vegetable shop near the Municipal High School grounds in Haveri.

According to the Department, Shankargouda, who has been in the vegetable trade for the past four years, recorded UPI transactions amounting to Rs. 1.63 crore, based on which his GST liability has been calculated at Rs. 29 lakh.

Reacting to the development, a shocked Shankargouda said, he buys vegetables directly from farmers and sells them to the public from his modest shop. "Most of my customers prefer paying via UPI. I have been regularly filing my Income Tax Returns (ITR) and have proper documentation for the same," he said, adding that GST notice demanding Rs. 29 lakh was beyond anything he could afford to pay.

1,314 small traders get GST notices in Mysuru Division

"If the traders fail to respond or register, the Department will initiate suo motu proceedings," said Shobha. In such cases, individuals will be deemed liable for tax and will be formally notified. If compliance is not ensured within 15 days, the Department will issue a demand order detailing the tax liability, interest and applicable penalties.

Once intimation letters are received, traders are required to contact the Department. Many have already done so, claiming they deal exclusively in GST-exempt goods such as fruits and vegetables. In these cases, field inspections are carried out to verify their claims. If validated, the case is dropped, she explained.

GST-exempt items

The Department clarified that items such as milk, fruits, vegetables, meat and chicken fall outside the GST ambit. Traders dealing solely in such goods are not liable for GST registration. However, processed or value-added products like sweets (e.g., doodh peda) made from milk are taxable.

For instance, if a Nandini outlet reports Rs. 40 lakh in annual turnover — Rs. 20 lakh from exempt items like milk and curd and Rs. 20 lakh from taxable products — then GST applies only to the taxable portion. Nevertheless, the shop must obtain GST registration as the overall turnover exceeds Rs. 40 lakh, Shobha noted.

Traders dealing in both taxable and exempt items are encouraged to furnish product-wise details. "There's no cause for undue concern if traders submit information about exempt products," the officer clarified.

Items like biscuit packets often carry the label "All taxes included," signifying that GST is already collected from consumers. Thus, GST registration ensures formal compliance.

Though GST was introduced in 2017, ample time has been given for traders to adapt. With digital transactions surging post-COVID, especially through UPI, the Department now has better tools to monitor financial activity and ensure compliance, she added.

City Police launch traffic beat system to prevent accidents

City Police Commissioner Seema Latkar inaugurating the New Traffic Beat System at Commissioner's Office auditorium in city this morning as DCP (Law and Order) R.N. Bindu Mani, DCP (Crime and Traffic) K.S. Sundar Raj, ACP (Traffic) M. Shivashankar and other Police officers look on.

Mysuru, July 23 (BLU&BS)- City Police Commissioner Seema Latkar inaugurated the new traffic beat system in the city this morning. The event was held at the Commissioner's Office auditorium in Nazarbad.

Explaining about the initiative, which is also a first of its kind, Latkar, with the help of a PowerPoint Presentation, said, "The Traffic Beat System, in general, is not just about crime prevention, but to bring in reforms on the traffic front too. The reforms will prove helpful in bringing down the rate of accidents. In 2024-25, a total of 175 accidents were reported in the city, while it has come down to 150 so far in 2025-26, which can be attributed to systematic traffic reforms."

Latkar further said, it is not just the work of the Police alone, but also the cooperation of society that counts in achieving the desired results.

"Instead of merely airing problems, we look forward to constructive suggestions that can help us improve our measures to resolve grievances. It has become increasingly common to witness crowds at accident sites rushing to capture videos on their cell phones and post them on social media in pursuit of likes. Rather than turning into social media enthusiasts at such critical moments, people should immediately inform the Police and ensure that victims are rushed to the hospital," said Latkar.

DCP (Law and Order) R.N. Bindu Mani said, "If planning is involved in the traffic control mechanism, the implementation will also be easy. The new beat system is a first of its kind and can be termed as a milestone. Apart from following the new system in toto, we should bring in timely changes to rectify the loopholes and move ahead."

Traffic Police Inspectors, Police Sub-Inspectors, Assistant Sub-Inspectors and other Police personnel and the public members of the traffic beat system were present. DCP (Crime and Traffic) K.S. Sundar Raj, ACP (Traffic) M. Shivashankar and others were present.

To ensure uninterrupted traffic supervision

Traffic Police are faced with challenges to bring in a road safety culture and address concerns related to road safety, in the wake of increasing vehicle density and accidents.

The traffic Policemen are entrusted particular geographical boundary and the responsibility to bring in reforms by establishing a regular contact with the public.

The new beat system is intended to ensure uninterrupted traffic supervision by deploying the officers and staff to speedily respond to traffic-related situations during road accidents and traffic disruptions. To effectively implement Motor Vehicle Rules at the junctions within the beat jurisdiction and accident zones. Apart from that, traffic awareness programmes should be conducted within the jurisdiction of the beat.

Responsibilities of traffic beat staff, officers

- To regularly inspect roads, traffic signal lights, CCTV cameras and the functioning of traffic equipment.
- To report to the higher officials about unauthorised parking areas, clearance of footpath and road encroachments and potholes and other traffic hurdles.
- To regularly examine the beat book and issue necessary directions to the staff.
- To conduct traffic awareness programmes in coordination with school and college students and the residents of the beat jurisdiction.
- Beat supervisory officers should review the traffic beat once a week.
- Any emergency information recorded by the Police involved in the beat should be brought to the notice of higher officials to take adequate action.

Four-day expo to showcase works of former Mysore Palace artist

S.R. Iyengar is a pioneer of early modern art, says Ganjifa Raghupathi Bhat

Mysuru, July 23 (MK&DM)- A four-day exhibition of paintings by former Mysore Palace artist late S.R. Iyengar opened this morning at the Wadiyar Centre for Architecture (WCFA) on Krishnaraja Boulevard Road.

The exhibition, featuring 16 paintings and portraits by Iyengar created between 1940 and 1985, along with several awards and prizes he won, will remain open from 10 am to 6 pm daily until July 26 (Saturday).

Inaugurating the exhibition, veteran artist and Kalidas Samman awardee Ganjifa Raghupathi Bhat hailed S.R. Iyengar (1898-1985) as a pioneer of early modern art. He recalled that several artists migrated to Mysuru following the fall of the Vijayanagar Empire and noted that Iyengar was among the most distinguished painters associated with the Palace.

Bhat highlighted Iyengar's formative years, mentioning that he studied at the J.J. School of Arts in Bombay under a scholarship awarded by Maharaja Krishnaraja Wadiyar IV.

"After returning to Mysuru, Iyengar became a key figure among Palace painters. He contributed extensively to the panels of the Kalyana Mantapa at the newly rebuilt Palace following the devastating 19th-century fire. These murals, painted between 1934 and 1945, vividly depict the grandeur of the Dasara festival and are based on actual photographs," he said.

The team of artists behind these murals also included K. Keshavaiah, S.N. Swamy, Y. Nagaraju, S. Shankar Raju, and Y. Subramanya Raju, he added.

Apart from his Palace work, Bhat noted, Iyengar created numerous independent portraits and landscapes in both watercolour and oil. "These works reflect his artistic evolution and provide valuable insights into the early modern developments in visual art that shaped the region's cultural and artistic identity," he observed.

Animation expert Avanish Patak, WCFA member B.L. Manjunath, Assistant Professor Madvesh N. Pandurangi and others were present on the occasion.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

By Dr. R. Balasubramaniam

Customer Disservice

A modern odyssey of pressing 1 for English and losing your will to live

It all begins innocently enough. A faulty dishwasher, a flight that needs rescheduling, or perhaps a printer that has decided to print only blank pages as a passive-aggressive cry for help. You reach for your phone, full of hope and a misplaced belief that someone — somewhere — will resolve this quickly.

And that is your first mistake.

You don't talk to a person. Oh no. First, you must pass the digital gatekeeper, a machine with the cheery warmth of a toaster. "Welcome! Your call is important to us," it lies with robotic sincerity, before plunging you into a Kafkaesque menu of options. "Press 1 for billing. Press 2 for product support. Press 3 to question your life choices."

Eventually, after mashing numbers with the fervour of a game show contestant, you are told to "Please hold while we connect you to the next available agent." A soothing instrumental version of Careless Whisper begins to loop. You age three years.

Then, a breakthrough! A human voice!

Or at least, something resembling one.

You are now speaking to Raj, or Garima, or possibly someone named Steve in a help centre whose location is a well-guarded international secret. They greet you with practiced politeness and an accent that makes it very clear English is not their favourite language — and unfortunately, neither is frustration.

You begin to explain. "I am having trouble with my dishwasher."

"Ah yes, your washing machine is not draining properly?"

"No, dish. D-I-S-H. You know, plates, spoons, Tupperware?"

A long pause. Keys click in the background.

"Yes, yes. Please hold while I transfer you to the refrigerator department."

Somewhere in the cosmos, a star dies.

Now you are in a new queue. The music is worse. You explain again, this time more urgently, slightly louder, and with the kind of forced calm usually reserved for bomb diffusers.

"Sir, I understand. But for security reasons, can you confirm your exact date of appliance purchase and the sixth digit of your serial number backwards?"

You don't know. You made pasta last night. Does that count?

Eventually, you reach someone who understands the issue. Together, you and this elusive unicorn — a helpful customer service agent — begin a fragile dance of mutual respect and technical troubleshooting.

But just as hope flickers to life, your call drops.

At this point, you consider giving up. Maybe you will just live with a broken dishwasher forever. You will wash dishes by hand, like your ancestors did. And maybe travel by boat, so you never have to deal with airlines again. Speaking of which —

Airlines! Ah yes, the fine art of calling an airline to change a travel itinerary.

First, you go online. The website suggests you can "easily manage your booking" through the portal. That is a lie. The portal leads to another portal. A metaphysical portal. And when you try to change your seat, the system gently suggests that your ticket no longer exists, and neither do you.

And then you decide to call. And after seventeen minutes of elevator music and half an audio-book, someone finally picks up.

"Good morning, how may I assist you today?"

You explain you would like to change your flight.

"Wonderful, sir. Can you please verify your identity by naming the street your grandmother's midwife lived on?"

"…I am sorry, what?"

"Sir, it is just for security."

Eventually, you do manage to change your flight, but only after being routed through three departments, accidentally booking yourself to Oslo instead of Osaka, and sobbing quietly into your phone.

And yet, in this grand circus of malfunctioning products, failed travel plans, and existential customer service loops, there remains one odd comfort: the human voice.

Because as terrible as it is trying to explain you are the customer and they are the agent — only to have both roles reverse and blur into existential soup — it is still better than yelling "SPEAK TO A HUMAN!" into the void of a voicebot that keeps saying, "Sorry, I didn't catch that."

So yes, I will take the miscommunications, the awkward silences and even being called "Mrs. Bali" if it means not having to press "9" repeatedly in a futile bid to escape the robot labyrinth.

In the end, it is a choice between rage and reason. Between despair and determination.

And between washing the dishes by hand — or going to war with the machine that was built to do it for me.

God help us all.

WORD OF THE DAY

Abject

Pronunciation: AB-jekt (adjective).
Meaning: Abject usually describes things that are extremely bad or severe. It can also describe something that feels or shows shame, or someone lacking courage or strength.
Origin: We're sorry to say you must cast your eyes down to fully understand abject: in Middle English the word described those lowly ones who are rejected and cast out. By the 15th century, it was applied as it still is today to anything that has sunk to, or exists in, a low state or condition; in modern use it often comes before the words poverty, misery and failure. Applied to words like surrender and apology, it connotes hopelessness and humility. The word's Latin source is the verb abicere, meaning "to throw away, throw down, overcome or abandon." Like reject, its ultimate root is the Latin verb jacere, meaning "to throw." Subject is also from jacere, and we'll leave you with that word as a way to change the subject.
Example: "This moment ... points toward the book's core: a question of how to distinguish tenderness from frugality. Is 'Homework' about a child who took a remarkably frictionless path, aided by a nation that had invested in civic institutions, from monetary hardship to the ivory tower? Merely technically. Is it a story of how members of a family, protected by a social safety net from abject desperation, developed different ideas about how to relate to material circumstance? We're getting there." —Daniel Felsenthal, The Los Angeles Times, 9 June 2025.

THE ODD WORD

Acariasis

Irritating itching insect infestation.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

A drop in the bucket

Meaning: The phrase 'A drop in the bucket' refers to a very small or unimportant amount.
Origin: Like so many popular phrases and expressions, the origin of 'a drop in the bucket' can be found in Bible. This saying can be found in Isaiah 40:15 as: "Behold, the nations are as a drop of the bucket, and are counted as the small dust of the balance: Behold, he taketh up isles as a very little thing." Interestingly, 'a drop in the bucket' precedes a related expression, 'a drop in the ocean,' which is first seen in print in a July 1802 piece written in The Edinburgh Weekly Journal: "The votes for appointment of Bonaparte to be Chief Consul for life are like a drop in the ocean compared with the aggregate of the population of France."
Example: "What we were paid for our work was a drop in the bucket compared to what the company earned."

CRYPTOQUIP

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

8th Mysore Science Theatre Festival from tomorrow

Mysuru, July 23- The eighth edition of the Mysore Science Theatre Festival (MSTF) will be held at Sri RamaGovinda Rangamandira in Ramakrishnanagar, Mysuru, from July 24 to 27 from 5 pm onwards.

Dr. Annapurni

The Festival is organised by The Mysore Science Theatre Festival Trust, in association with the Indian Institute of Astrophysics (IIA), Bengaluru, Swami Vivekananda Youth Movement (SVYM), Mysuru, Parivarthana Ranga Samaja, Arivu Ranga and Kalasuruchi with support from Kutuhali-Kannada, a Kannada science magazine, Mysuru.

Mysore Science Theatre Fest will be inaugurated by IIA Director Dr. Annapurni Subramaniam, an astrophysicist of repute and a violinist, at 4.30 pm tomorrow with a violin recital. Neelanjan Choudhary, a noted English playwright and novelist from Bengaluru, will deliver keynote address followed by 'Ganitha Kunitha' by B.S. Krishnamurthy.

Every day before the plays start, programmes on science and scientists are scheduled. Besides exhibition of mathematical toys, books and posters on Indian women scientists, the public is also provided with an opportunity to view sun spots through a telescope.

The programmes held from 5 pm to 6 pm will feature special talk on how Astronomy dethroned humans (July 25), discussion on Indian women scientists in 2025 (July 26) and a juicy quiz on Serendipitous Science (July 27). From 6.30 pm onwards, plays will be staged on all the four days — 'The Trial of Abdus Salam' by Ridhdhi, Bengaluru, on July 24; 'Hasivu' by Arivu Ranga, Mysuru, on July 25; 'Raman: Belaku, Shabda, Sidilu' by Kalasuruchi, Mysuru, on July 26; 'Moorane Kivi' by Parivarthana Ranga Samaja, Mysuru, on July 27.

This Science Theatre Fest series began in the year 2017 when three amateur theatre troupes from Mysuru came together to stage plays with themes on science and scientists.

The fest, which initially staged translations of popular English plays, is now showcasing original plays on Indian science and Indian scientists written in Kannada.

MSTF has grown over the years as a model for Indian languages in science and theatre. Thanks to MSTF, twenty-one new Kannada plays have seen the light. Some of these plays have seen more than thirty performances and some a dozen. Prestigious institutions like Indian Institute of Astrophysics have come forward to sponsor the fest. Similarly, the plays performed at Mysore Science Theatre Fest have made it to many prestigious science institutes in Karnataka like CSIR-CFTRI, Indian Institute of Sciences, Institute for Human Genetics, including engineering colleges.
